Dassault Systèmes SolidWorks Corporation Student Access Eligibility and Terms of Use Agreement

(Please read this agreement and ACCEPT or DECLINE its terms and conditions at the bottom of this page.)

"Student Access" or "Student Access product" refers to the Student Design Kit (SDK), the Student Engineering Kit (SEK), or the 60-Day Trial version of SolidWorks® software.

Eligibility for SolidWorks Student Access License:

SolidWorks Student Access licenses available at this website are provided only to:

- students and educators at academic institutions that have been authorized by Dassault Systèmes SolidWorks Corporation ("DS SolidWorks") to offer Student Access; and
- students and educators who have received Student Access for trial purposes.

You acknowledge that this agreement supplements and is governed by the Dassault Systèmes SolidWorks Corporation Student Access Initiative License Agreement (the "License Agreement"), which you have received with your download of Student Access and which permits you to use Student Access only for your own personal and academic purposes. You also confirm that (i) your academic institution has notified you of your eligibility to receive the appropriate SolidWorks Student Access product (either SDK or SEK) and has provided you with a School License ID (either SDK-ID or SEK-ID) for registration purposes; or (ii) a DS SolidWorks employee or a DS SolidWorks authorized value-added reseller (VAR) has provided you with a 60-Day Trial ID.

Any download and use of a Student Access product by a person who is not eligible for such product shall constitute a violation of the License Agreement and applicable laws.

Please note that the Student Access product obtained from this website differs from other versions of SolidWorks software in that:

- The license for such product will expire in accordance with the terms of your download card or your academic institution’s particular agreement with DS SolidWorks, and
- Files created with Student Access contain an ‘academic-use only’ watermark.
